WELCOME TO THE 2014 WHITE HOUSE CATALOG

The White House Historical Association is a nonprofit educational association founded in 1961 for the purpose of enhancing the understanding, appreciation, and enjoyment of the Executive Mansion. All proceeds from the sale of the association's books and products are used to fund the acquisition of historic furnishings and artwork for the permanent White House collection, assist in the preservation of public rooms, and further its educational mission. Our annual catalog features a growing selection of products inspired by the history of the White House and those who have lived there.

The 2014 White House Christmas Ornament

The 2014 White House Christmas ornament honors the administration of Warren G. Harding, who served as the twenty-ninth president of the United States from 1921 to 1923. As a young boy, Harding dreamed of being a locomotive engineer—a wish that was to come true for 51 minutes when as president, he took over the controls on the Alaskan railroad during the "Voyage of Understanding," his famous transcontinental speaking and sightseeing tour. The Presidential Special, the train that carried President Harding west at the outset of his ambitious voyage and that would tragically carry his casket back east following his sudden death, just two months later, is the inspiration for our 2014 ornament.

Decorated with gold tones and enamel finishes, the 33rd annual White House Christmas Ornament is our first ornament to be comprised of two pieces, which can be hung as two separate ornaments or linked together. The locomotive is a detailed miniature replica of one of several steam-powered locomotives that pulled the Presidential Special; it is attached to the coal car that held its fuel. The other miniature car is the Superb, the president's private heavyweight Pullman car. The last car on the Special, the Superb was outfitted with a public address system. President Harding made appearances and delivered speeches at stops across the country from a platform at the back of the car. The last known photograph of President Harding is an image of him on the Superb shortly before his death in a San Francisco hotel on August 2, 1923. On August 3, President Harding's casket was placed on board the Superb and began a return trip to Washington, D.C., during which an estimated 3 million people paid their last respects.

A CHRISTMAS DREAM. Our 2014 Christmas card celebrates President Warren G. Harding's lifelong love of trains with a watercolor by artist John Hutton. Harding grew up in rural Ohio during America's post-Civil War years when the explosive expansion of railroad building across the nation lured the imagination to new places. Harding dreamed of becoming a locomotive engineer. His future took other paths, but in 1923, as President of the United States on a cross-country tour, his childhood wish came true when he climbed into the cab of an Alaskan Railroad engine and in bliss controlled the speed with his own hands for fifty-one minutes. Greeting Inside: Holiday Greetings. 16 cards with envelopes.
7" x 5" #515 $17.95

PRESIDENT WILSON PLANTS A TREE
This watercolor by artist John Hutton captures President Wilson's newly planted elm tree on the snow-covered North Lawn of the White House. THE WHITE HOUSE: ITS HISTORIC FURNISHINGS AND FIRST FAMILIES. This award-winning title, back in print for its second edition, features never-before-published photography from the George W. Bush and Barack Obama administrations. New White House acquisitions highlighted include State china services and a rare photograph of the White House draped in black for the mourning of President Abraham Lincoln. A symbol of the nation for more than two-hundred years, the White House has been home to every president and his family, except for George Washington. John and Abigail Adams were its first residents, but Washington had left his mark by selecting the site and approving the design. Each family since has been encouraged to make it a comfortable home and to acquire furniture and decorative art to fulfill the White House's role as a nexus of ceremony and entertaining. As a result, the furnishings in the White House cover a wide range of genres, all rich with historic association. Generously illustrated with especially commissioned photography and select period graphics, this volume focuses on some of our nation's most important heirlooms, including historically significant furniture, silver, glass, porcelain, and textiles. It is an ideal choice for those deeply interested in the decorative arts, presidential biography, and America's incomparable history. Case bound with dustjacket. 320 pages, more than 300 photographs. 9¾" x 12". #976 SPECIAL PRICE $39.95

The Green Room Collection

The Green Room, the first of the State Rooms to be named for the color of its textiles, is furnished in the late Federal style popular when the White House was first occupied. The silk wall fabric, initially selected by First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy in 1962, has been replaced several times, most recently by First Lady Laura Bush in 2007. Paintings include portraits of presidents and significant works by American artists. The Green Room provides a serene setting for small gatherings, interviews, teas, and social activities.

THE GREEN ROOM SCARF
This silk scarf celebrates the historic Green Room with motifs inspired by its late Federal period decor. The American Bald Eagle at the center of the design is based on the gilded cornices above the windows; the harp is derived from the French Savonnerie rug; and the silver coffee urn, which belonged to John and Abigail Adams, is the oldest object in the collection. 100% silk. Made in France for the White House Historical Association. 33" square. Gift box presentation.
474 $150.00

GREEN ROOM TIE
This necktie celebrates the historic Green Room with a design inspired by the American Bald Eagle on the carved and gilded window cornices and the rosette on the ceiling above the chandelier. 100% silk. Made in France for the White House Historical Association. #473 $75.00

GREEN ROOM DOUBLE PUZZLE The elegant Green Room on one side and a portrait of founding father Benjamin Franklin painted by David Martin in 1767 on the reverse. 500-piece two-sided puzzle is 15" x 22" when completed. Not for children under 3 years of age.

A View of the White House with Cherry Blossoms

This colorful watercolor by Margaret Huddy celebrates the annual cherry blossom season in Washington, D.C. It was First Lady Helen Herron Taft's idea to plant the cherry trees along the Tidal Basin and her wish was realized in 1912 when 3000 trees were given to the United States by Japan. Now more than 100 years old, the spectacular blossoms of the mature cherry trees are the focus of an annual springtime festival and parade.

With this special bicentennial collection, we remember the burning of the White House in 1814 during the War of 1812. Artist Tom Freeman's watercolor captures the scene as the White House is engulfed in flames. The blaze, set by British troops who hurled flaming torches through the windows, reduced the mansion to a burned-out shell; reconstruction took three years.

AFTER THE FIRE marks the bicentennial of the burning of the White House. The fire calls up many stories—the flight of the President and Mrs. Madison, the presidential dinner consumed by the British officers, the javelins of fire. And, after the smoke cleared, and the worst was over, President Madison faced the question of what to do about the American capital now. The White House was a burnt-out shell. Rebuild it or not? This issue revisits the burning and reconstruction of the White House from a variety of points of view, featuring individuals involved in the fire, rescues, dangers and aftermath, a little archaeology, and biography. In the auction inventory of Dolley Madison's possessions you will find the mementos she treasured from the great melodrama, of which she stands first in legend and memory. Issue 35. 140 pages. 8½" x 11"

THE WHITE HOUSE AND THE WEST. The preoccupation of those who occupied the White House for most of the nineteenth century was settlement of the West. Like most Americans, presidents by the 1840s saw the West as a place of romance, distant, impossibly different, a resource to exploit. Kit Carson, Seth Eastman, and other rugged pioneers came to the East Room to shake hands with the presidents. Chiefs of Native American tribes called with their entourages. In the White House today the West is a constant presence in art and history. This issue of White House History addresses the subject in various ways from historic maps to western art to John James Audubon and the cherry trees planted along the Tidal Basin. Issue 34. 70 pages. 8½" x 11"

Entrance Hall

The formal Entrance Hall, with its tiled floors of Tennessee marble and richly striated columns, receives visitors inside the White House. Straight ahead in this view from the North Portico is the door to the Blue Room surrounded with emblems of office: the Presidential Seal, the Presidential Flag, and the Flag of the United States. The Presidential Seal is comprised of the American Bald Eagle holding a ribbon in its beak while clutching an olive branch in one foot and thirteen arrows in the other. It bears a shield of thirteen red and white stripes representing the original thirteen states. This shield is the inspiration for many of the items featured in our Red, White, and Blue Collection.

EAGLE LETTER OPENER
Stylized American eagle from the White House glassware collection. Nickel silver, 5½" long.
#9730 $22.00

This new collection of pewter desk accessories is inspired by an eagle incorporated in the design of an eagle-head pommel on a saber in the White House Collection. The saber was commissioned for President George Washington by French volunteers in the American Revolution. Made at the Klingenthal Amory in Alsace, France, by the turn of the nineteenth century, the gilded brass, mother-of-pearl, and steel saber was never presented to President Washington, who died before it was completed. The French government possessed the saber until 1933, when they donated it to the White House Collection.

We ask a lot of our chief executives. . . . That means the burdens and hopes and dreams of the nation reside in that one individual, and given the pressures of office, we voters have always been interested in where they choose to go to relax. Larry Knutson takes us there—to each place and in great detail—in this first book of its kind. . . . You are in for a great treat, and a wonderful journey.—

BRIAN WILLIAMS, FORMER CHIEF WHITE HOUSE CORRESPONDENT, NBC NEWS, ANCHOR AND MANAGING EDITOR, NBC NIGHTLY NEWS

AWAY FROM THE WHITE HOUSE: PRESIDENTIAL RETREATS, ESCAPES AND VACATIONS by Lawrence L. Knutson. Long years have passed since an American president, taking his cue from the customs of the diplomatic community, abandoned the White House for most of the summer to go home and take care of his personal business—then nearly always a farm, such as Jefferson's Monticello or Adams's Peacefield. Today the presidency is year-round. Time away from the White House must be fitted into the great puzzle of his overall responsibilities, and is inevitably shorter than in the distant past. Some of his work goes with him, as do several key advisors, a large detachment of Secret Service agents, and all the others essential to the well being of a president. Still, on vacation he is officially on his own and he chips away a little time for leisure. Away from the White House: Presidential Escapes, Retreats, and Vacations presents a lively and interesting slice of the presidency that most of us know little about: How the president relaxes away from the White House.
